The Thomist, a Speculative Quarterly Review of Theology and Philosophy, appeals to a wide international readership in the university, the seminary, and the Church. In the tradition and spirit of Thomas Aquinas, it seeks to promote original and penetrating inquiry into the broad range of contemporary philosophical and theological questions. It undertakes particularly to support sustained discussion of central issues in the various subfields of philosophy and systematic theology, especially though not exclusively where such discussion can be advanced by creative use of the thought of Aquinas and significant authors in the Thomist tradition. In this way The Thomist seeks to cultivate a fruitful dialogue between modern and contemporary philosophical systems and the classical tradition of philosophy and Christian theology. History of philosophy, historical theology, and textual studies, as they bear on enduring speculative questions or as they illumine the intellectual setting of Thomistic thought, also come within the scope of the journal.

The Thomist is published quarterly in January, April, July, and October. Subscription rates for print edition or electronic edition for 1 year: colleges and universities $92.50, religious houses and seminaries $65.00, individuals $40.00. Subscription rates for combined print and electronic edition for 1 year: colleges and universities $129.50, religious houses and seminaries $91.00, individuals $56.00. Postage with the U.S. is free; international postage is $25.00. Single copies (within twelve months of publication): $30.00 for institutions, $20.0 for individuals. The Thomist web site (www.thomist.org) contains full text of issues from 1965 to the present. Project Muse (muse.jhu.edu) contains full text of recent issues. Norification of change of address, payments, and inquires concerning subscriptions, back issues, and missing copies should be sent to JHUP Journals Division, P.O.
